Cambridgeshire Archaeology is the umbrella organisation for the partnerships of the Cambridgeshire County Council Archaeology office and Oxford Archaeology East (formerly the CCC Archaeology Field Unit) to deliver public archaeology and outreach projects in Cambridgeshire.

For many years Cambridgeshire Archaeology has been one of the country's leading exponents of public archaeology. It actively promotes education and community projects, with the key aim of increasing understanding of the rich heritage of the county. Few counties in Britain offer more public archaeology opportunities than Cambridgeshire, with over 6,500 visitors participating in over 70 events during 2009.

We undertake or provide:

- schools/college talks and projects;
- educational resources and national curriculum advice;
- resource handling packs for schools;
- work experience and volunteer opportunities;
- excavation open days;
- ancient monument activity days;
- guided walks around Cambridgeshire's monuments;
- tours for schools to archaeological sites in Cambridgeshire;
- evening lectures and talks;
- conferences and exhibitions; and
- Community archaeology projects.

Public events include guided walks on historic monuments, evening talks to local societies, family and children's archaeology activity days both on ancient monuments and at local libraries. Details of all public events are available on the annual Archaeology Events programme (leaflet available on our websites). We are also keen to develop further Community Archaeology projects in Cambridgeshire, having successfully completed lottery funded projects at Fulbourn, Sutton, Huntingdon, Thorney, Godmanchester and Wisbech. Please contact us to discuss any ideas you may have for community projects in your area.

If you have an interest in participating in archaeology we continue to offer opportunities for volunteers. For further details please see our websites.
